

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

LOYOLA BILINGUAL FOOTBALL COACHING CLINIC SET

The Seventh Annual Loyola of Montreal Bilingual Football Coaching Clinic will be held on Saturday, April 29th at the College's Athletic Complex.

The 1971 Clinic attracted over 150 coaches from all areas of Canada and clinic organizers are optimistic that this year's session will involve more than 200 members of the coaching fraternity.

Once again Loyola has secured the services of several outstanding players and coaches to impart their knowledge of the game to those attending. Leading the way is Sam Etcheverry, Head Coach of the Montreal Alouettes, lecturing on Development of the Quarterback, and George Brancato, Defensive Coach of the Ottawa Rough Riders, covering Team Defensive Backfield Play.

Active professionals involved in the Clinic include Bruce Van Ness (Drills for the Running Back), Larry Fairholm (Defensive Safety Play), Terry Evanshen (Wide Receiver), and Steve Smear (Interior Line and Linebacker Play). All are currently with the Montreal Alouettes.

Loyola's own staff will be represented by Head Coach Doug Daigneault (Team offense), Line Coach Tony Pajaczkowski (Offensive Guard Play), Jon Rose (Wide Receiver), and Head Trainer Russ Blackwell (Care and Prevention of Injuries).

A new addition to this year's Clinic program will be the involvement for the first time of the referees. Jacques Decarie and Bernie Young, both of the Quebec Football Referee Association, will go over the rule interpretations as well as any new rule changes for the coming year.

Several of the sessions will be given in both French and English and will feature the "Learn by Doing" teaching method.

Registration will take place at the Loyola Athletic Complex, 7200 Sherbrooke Street West, from 9:00 to 10:00 AM on the day of the clinic. The sessions will conclude at approximately 3:00 PM.
